Attorney General John Ashcroft
US Department of Justice
950 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20530

Dear Mr. Ashcroft:

I think the anti-trust lawsuit filed against Microsoft Corporation should finally be closed and satisfied. The suit charged Microsoft with unfair business practices that limit competition, but really the issues were new ground. The technology industry is continually producing new products and procedures that challenge the rest of the world to keep up, including legislation.

Moving forward, Microsoft has agreed to change their policies and procedures to conform to the agreed terms of the settlement of the lawsuit. They have actually agreed to more conditions than were at issue in the lawsuit, and they did so to get the lawsuit behind them and to resume business.

I think Microsoft has shown their intent to conform to the ruling and the terms of the settlement. No further court action should be taken against Microsoft Corporation.

Sincerely,

Brandon Wright
